In the period between the 2001-2008, the construction sector of the Republic of Moldova has developed in satisfactory growth rates. The housing construction till 2008, was growing up with rising growth rates, but due to the financial crisis that has affected this sector in 2009, the usage of the new houses fell with 34.3% in comparison with 2008. The number of apartments that are built each year is increasing, with the exception of 2009 and 2010 due to financial crisis. State support is also present in this sector through various levers and measures in order to improve the situation.
